  - Specific projects include primary data collection with potentially marginalized community members.
- Manage the Research Shop’s social media account.
- Support project record keeping and archiving (e.g. project tracking).
- Participate in other activities, as negotiated.
- This position will report to the Research Shop Project Manager of each assigned project, as well as the Research Shop Coordinator.

Required Skills and Experience:
- Interest in working with community organizations and initiatives, specifically around issues of poverty, food security, the environment, and other complex social issues.
- Strong attention to detail.
- Demonstrated qualitative research skills.

Preferred Skills and Experience:
- Excellent written communication.
- Excellent interpersonal and communication skills.
- Quantitative research skills an asset.
- Experience working with marginalized populations.
- Experience related to community engagement or community-based research.

Hours of work will range from 10-15 a week commencing late April and ending late August with an opportunity to continue into the Fall. This position pays $19 - $22.50, depending on experience.
